ALBERT EINSTEIN: The Human Side — Helen Dukas and Banesh Hoffmann, Eds. Letters and other bits of writing from the Einstein archives that reveal his character. Includes the German texts of the writings that were done in German. Originally published in hardback in 1979. Princeton U Pr, 1981, 167 p., paper, $3.95.

THE ALLERGY BOOK — Harsha V. Dehejia. A concise guide to allergic conditions written by a specialist in the field that provides allergy sufferers and their families with practical advice and information on the causes, symptoms and treatment of allergies. Van Nos Reinhold, 1981, 184 p., illus., $10.95.

CITY BEHIND A FENCE: Oak Ridge, Tennessee, 1942-1946 — Charles W. Johnson and Charles O. Jackson. A history of this top secret community during the years that it played a crucial role in America's entry into the nuclear age. U of Tenn Pr, 1981, 248 p., illus., $18.50, paper, $9.50.

FIRE OF LIFE: The Smithsonian Book of the Sun — Joe Goodwin et al., Eds. Chapters range widely in this magnificently illustrated book that celebrates the human relationship to the dazzling star that governs our very existence and evokes our awe and wonder. Encompasses our present knowledge of the sun and its place in the arts, sciences and humanities. Smithsonian (Norton), 1981, 262 p., color illus., $24.95.

GENES, MIND, AND CULTURE: The Coevolutionary Process — Charles J. Lumsden and Edward O. Wilson. An attempt to develop a theory of gene-culture coevolution. The authors examine the steps that lead from genes through mind to culture and develop explicit models that connect individual mental development to culture and culture to genetic evolution. Harvard U Pr, 1981, 428 p., charts and graphs, $20.

GREEN WISDOM — Arthur W. Galston. These readable essays by an outstanding botanist demonstrate the remarkable behavioral strategies built into plants. Behavior is defined as the evolutionary development of response patterns that favor an organism for survival when challenged by potentially adverse environmental forces. Basic, 1981, 217 p., illus. by Lauren Brown, $12.95.

MATHEMATICAL CIRCUS: More Games, Puzzles, Paradoxes, & Other Mathematical Entertainments from Scientific American — Martin Gardner. Covers such topics as optical illusions, elegant triangles, Boolean algebra, cyclic numbers, the abacus and dominoes. Originally published in hardback in 1979. Random, 1981, 272 p., illus., paper, $4.95.

THE OXFORD ENCYCLOPEDIA OF TREES OF THE WORLD — Bayard Hora, Ed. Describes and illustrates a selection of the most significant trees of the world. Points up one of the most striking features of trees — their diversity. Beautiful photographs and drawings. Oxford U Pr, 1981, 288 p., color illus., $24.95.

THE PARASITES WE HUMANS HARBOR — Aaron E. Klein. Explores the micro world of the animal parasite. Describes the different parasites that live on humans, their life cycle, the diseases they cause, how to recognize them and how to escape becoming their victim. Elsevier-Nelson, 1981, 289 p., illus., $11.95.

THE PASSIONATE AMATEUR'S GUIDE TO ARCHAEOLOGY IN THE UNITED STATES — Josleen Wilson. Describes the many ways to experience archaeology in this country, from going on a dig with professional archaeologists, to visiting sites that have already been excavated, to seeing special collections in museums, to joining a statewide group of amateur archaeologists or participating in major scientific expeditions. Shows how the experience of archaeology can turn into a fascinating and educational adventure the whole family can share. Macmillan, 1981, 464 p., illus., paper, $12.95.

REFUSENIK: Trapped in the Soviet Union — Mark Ya. Azbel, edited by Grace Pierce Forbes, foreword by Freeman J. Dyson. The autobiography of a Jewish theoretical physicist who made rapid advances in the Soviet scientific community until 1972 when he applied for an exit visa to Israel. Fired from his positions, harassed, arrested and imprisoned, he became a leader of the Jewish dissidents in Moscow. Only after five years was he able to emigrate to Israel. HM, 1981, 513 p., illus., $17.95.

SECRET FALLOUT: Low-Level Radiation from Hiroshima to Three Mile Island — Ernest J. Sternglass, introduction by George Wald. The author has battled for 20 years to bring to the public what he feels is the evidence for the cumulative, devastating effects of low-level radiation on human health. The first 14 chapters appear nearly unchanged from Low-Level Radiation, published in 1972. The last five chapters bring the problem up to date. Includes an extensive bibliography. McGraw, 1981, 306 p., paper, $5.95.

THE ZOO THAT NEVER WAS — R. D. Lawrence. Tells of the adventures of the author and his wife as they inadvertently became keepers of a wild menagerie on their farm in Canada. These orphaned, injured or abandoned animals included, among others, raccoons, a skunk, a lynx, a porcupine and a bear cub. HR&W, 1981, 308 p., illus., $13.95.
